

Each of the poems illustrates one or more aspects of the process of realisation, which is referred to as a Way of Beauty. As this process is one of unfolding and opening towards ones full potential, it is experienced differently by every traveller. Certain principles however underlie each way: only the transformation of day to day life attitudes into friendliness and compassion can bring us to the goal of bliss and harmony; feet and hands are the tools that express realisation in everyday life.

Many eighteenth-century poems portrayed nature at its best when controlled by man. over the natural world and often attributed a mystical quality to the land. There's more than enough mysticism in my upbringing to keep me comfortable there ;- ) For those who are attracted to the rich tapestry of yogic mystical entities, .

William Shakespeare An introduction . This beautiful poem is an allegory, depicting the mystical nature of love, in which "two distincts" can become one.
