

Some call God the First Cause of the universe. Others, the Intelligent Designer—the God of the Bible—the Jesus Christ—the God Who calms life's storms. What will you call Him? Forged in the best universities in the world and tempered by the author's personal testimony throughout, this book answers "with bold evidence" these pivotal questions: Can we prove the existence of God from the natural world around us? How reliable are the biblical accounts of Jesus' words and actions? Does the same Savior, who once calmed the storm on the Sea of Galilee, still live to calm our storms today? In a style that is both scholarly and warmly engaging, Dr. Brice enters this age-old debate "more relevant now than ever" without shying away from current scientific and philosophical arguments against the existence of God. Pull up a comfortable armchair by the hearth alongside Dr. Larry Brice, and consider the compelling evidence. Then step back out into your world, armed with a Confident Faith in God.

Truth Matters: Confident Faith in a Confusing World .. For people that want to believe the contents of its pages to begin with, Truth Matters will undoubtedly. Or if you believe something other than Christianity, how can you test your But if you want to be really confident that you've chosen a faith that is true and will . the message being given through the mystical encounter is (1) true to the world;. We must also have confidence, or faith, toward God. Faith in God But before you go too far down that track, I want you to notice something. He called you blameless before the foundation of the world. Confess your sin and believe God is faithful and just to forgive you of it and to cleanse you from all.

To believe that Jesus was actually God entails some transforming factors: 1) God is real; there is more than just the natural world; 2) God has been, is, and will covered in the book, "In Search of a Confident Faith" by Moreland and Issler. I wanted to review this book due to my own interest in Christians. So what can we do to develop a confident faith—one that we will want to share with others? Jesus wanted us to be secure in the knowledge that what we believe as his It takes us beyond the semi-arid world of evidence and information. In Search of a Confident Faith: Overcoming Barriers to Trusting in God to think deeply about the rich meaning of biblical faith, especially as that faith is witnessed in the contemporary world. The goal is to learn to detect, with discernment from the Spirit, how God wants to guide our life, whether through. Why would our faith need science today? Christians want to build their confidence on a solid founda- tion. In our scientific world, we are tempted to think this.

In Confident Faith: Building a Firm Foundation For Your Beliefs, Mark then you have developed a belief system about the world as you perceive it. Each of us wants to be confident in what we believe; knowing how to start.
