

The Longman GNVQ Core Skills series consists of three files and a students guide. Each file is devoted to one of the core skills - Communication, Application of Number and Information Technology. Between them these three files cover all the mandatory skills at levels one to three. The Core Skills can also be used as a resource to support learning skills for GCSE and A level students. The students guide helps students to assess the skills they have and to identify those they need to develop. It provides them with detailed descriptions of the core skills topics and information on how to produce evidence of the core skills.
