

A very readable, practical book filled with evangelism helps that many ignore in today's trendy church-growth climate ... It does not confuse church growth with evangelism, but expects that witness to the Gospel of Jesus and sound theology will result in a church that grows in depth of faith and membership.

Dennis A. Anderson, President, Trinity Lutheran Seminary
At long last, we get a how-to book, a faith-at-work book, a book on theology and methodology, a book on preaching, teaching and reaching, and a book on growing spiritually. In the midst of a confusing maze of emphases and power groups pushing priorities in the church, this book ... could become a textbook in our seminaries, and a resource book for every pastor and evangelism committee member in our church.

William E. Berg, Pastor
Former Evangelism Director
Augustana Synod
You have correctly analyzed evangelism to be not just another activity of the church but its basic function, the gospel itself in action.

The late T. A. Kantonen, Professor, Systematic Theology
Hamma Divinity School
My concern is ... where the church is in this business of evangelism right now ... Your ideas and processes offer much that is very concrete and practical.

Kenneth H. Sauer, Bishop, Southern Ohio Synod
ELCA
I employed many of your ideas ... with good results. (The book) spurs me on in my service here.

Lee S. Welker, Parish Pastor
Labeled the architect of the United Lutheran church in America's church-wide Lutheran Evangelism Mission, E. Dale Click has practiced evangelism in two suburban and three downtown congregations. He is a graduate of Wittenberg University and Hamma Divinity School, Springfield, Ohio. If you've sought a tool to help group conversations about the Christian faith, you've found it. This book teaches the faith, reveals the Lord of our faith, and welcomes honest search and discovery of the meaning of faith.

James A. Rave, Bishop
Northwestern Ohio Synod, ELCA
Speaking as a lay person who chairs the evangelism committee of a congregation and who has witnessed Pastor Click giving these TALKS, I find From Zero to Faith a very practical step-by-step book for both the church and for the non-believer who is looking for information on Christianity. Any church can and should use this book to begin their own series of INFORMATION TALKS. This resourceful book is a must for every church's library.

Jeffrey H. Allwine, Entrepreneur
This pastor brings a full career of experience in evangelism to these INFORMATION TALKS FOR VISITORS. As the title suggests, he emphasizes the importance of personal contacts and lay participation. In doing so, he makes a wholesome combination of theology and practice.
