

Get Me To Hollywood: British Edition is the essential guide to living the life as a British actor in LA and how to make it in Hollywood. Specifically tailored for our British readers, we will guide you throughout the 8 chapters and will cover the basics: what an American headshot looks like compared with a British headshot, the established actors resume, how to find representation, how to meet with casting directors and the audition process, and will also include a detailed list of resources and contributors, all valuable information needed to succeed and make it in this town. Louisa Spring has specialized in representing English talent for the past 15 years and has successfully helped them make the trek over. With the current fascination with all things British, the timing was right to release this handbook to help those seeking help on making the big move. She currently represents iconic British actors such as John Rhys-Davies (Lord Of The Rings, Indiana Jones), Roger Moore (James Bond, The Saint), Steven Berkoff (The Girl With The Dragon Tattoo) amongst others.
