

Business School Dean, Henry Longman, lay dead on the concrete paving five floors below his office close to the heart of the world's financial centre. The greatest financial crash for almost 100 years was just months away. Had he jumped or was he pushed? It was known that he was writing a book on financial scandals. Had he discovered things about past and present events that would throw light on the impending crisis, and made enemies who were determined to stop him revealing what he knew? Or perhaps he had had his own reasons for ending his life? When Detective Inspector Sandra Harry and her young colleague, Mark Andrews, are called in to investigate, they find a trail in his unpublished manuscript that implicates leading figures in the financial community and faculty of the business school, and the hand of an international criminal network. How Are The Mighty Fallen? is a story of farce, fiction and sudden death in the City of London in the days leading up to the global financial crash.
