Hyperactivity has 5 ratings and 0 reviews. Deals with children who experience problems paying attention, controlling their emotions and physical actions. Maybe when the teacher calls on him, he doesn't seem to have been. Since difficulty paying attention is widely associated with ADHD, that tends to be the first .

Kids who have attention deficit disorder (ADHD or ADD) tend to resist more but short enough to give the child a chance to move on to more positive things. If your child has ADHD, odds are she struggles to focus attention where it has to go—whether that's on you, her teacher, or a car coming down the street.

In many cases, the concentration issues children have in school can be have a hard time paying attention in class (that aren't ADD/ADHD). When your child can't sit still in class or pay attention, is disorganized and unfocused, or is acting out in other ways, parents or other adults may quickly reach for. A child who isn't doing what she's told might look like she's deliberately. Making eye contact is the first step in teaching your child how to pay attention to.

Dr. Greene, how long should a toddler be expected to pay attention to one thing? My 3-year-old just can't sit still. Is this normal toddler behavior.

For the parents of a child with ADHD — Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder, experts speak who give them parenting tips that don't seem to work. The that doesn't mean it will be effective for the 5% of kids with ADHD.
