

This Chapter 11 installment of MYRTLES PENULTIMATE WALKABOUT goes where few humans have gone, even in a paranormal mystery. Questions are asked. Some are answered tentatively. Who are we? What are we? Where are we? What is Death? Why? And what about Linda Shelnutts new fictional concept, UC&C [Ultimate Conversion and Completion]? Is Earth going through that process in this novel? If so, what does it involve? If nothing else it would be an interesting event. Could something like this be taking place in our real world? Could this UC&C concept explain some of the turmoil the human race is enduring on a global scale? If so, who or what might be arriving on Earth to partake of this type of major event? Step into this imaginary world and explore some of these possibilities. Note that this began as a novel in progress offered in individual chapter installments as they were written. It went through a few conversions prior to becoming the finished work titled MYRTLES PENULTIMATE WALKABOUT. The estimated number of chapters on completion was 30, as was the case in the pilot to this series, MYRTLES ULTIMATE MYSTERY. We weren't certain we'd make it to the end of MPW. As of this 2015 update, chapters 1 - 27 have arrived on scene with 27 unexpectedly concluding the story! So, yes, we made it! Readers' purchases and reviews helped us get there. KINDLE GLOW BOOKS is curious whether KINDLE owners downloading these chapters were saving them to read after the book was finished, or if they were reading them individually after purchase or free promo download. If they read the chapters when downloaded, we were curious if they waited to read the Endnotes after reading all available story content. It has come to our attention that some readers preferred to read the story first if they had collected several unread chapter installments, saving the Endnotes to read later, whereas at least one reader wanted to read and review the Endnotes first, saving the storyline to read all at once when the book was finished, and now it is! The Endnotes have somewhat of a sequential nature and each applies at least partially to the content of the chapter it accompanies, so they were originally written to be read after finishing each chapter's storyline. Of course we say whatever works for each reader's needs and preferences, but we were curious to know how owners of MYRTLES PENULTIMATE WALKABOUT chapter installments have been approaching assimilating the Endnote material. And now an alternate means of enjoying this story and its unusual process, the promised pair of books have been published, with one of these providing the finished storyline and the other compiling the 27 endnotes. Look for a shaded tree at sunset featured on the pair of book covers, in contrast to the stained glass window focused on the individual chapter installments. Direct hyperlinks to the MPW pair of books have been included inside this 2015 update of chapter 11. Share with us the special occasion of these publication completions which were long in coming and plagued with delays. Be part of the first wave of brainpower to purchase and review the MPW pair of books! The natural audience for this offering will likely be small but mightily brilliant. Sending blessings to our readers, KINDLE GLOW BOOKS
