

This book is a collection of monographs by legendary euphoniumist Arthur Lehman. Arthur uses his many years of experience as euphonium soloist with The United States Marine Band to offer advice on issues ranging from a player's attitudes to various technical issues. Most of the topics are valuable to any brass player, but Arthur also offers specific advice on playing the popular euphonium solo Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms. Most of the subjects were compiled by David Werden from a series of letters that Arthur wrote to his long-time friend Bob Hoe, who was in the hospital at the time. Mr. Hoe was perhaps best known for sponsoring and publishing the recording series The Heritage of the March.

Welcome to The Brass Herald, a publication for all brass musicians. The magazine is published in February, May, August, October and December and contains articles by perhaps the most authoritative team of writers in the world of brass.
