

This short story is about helping innocent honest people finding back to themselves and assert themselves against vicious provokers, bullies, attackers, harassers, aggressors, rumor-spreaders, Sharks, and the like, hiding behind polished sharp bleached teeth and fake-fine smiles or appearances. Once again the author uses her personal experiences to come a point across that everyone can be victimized and be a forced victim, but not necessarily a prolonged self-chosen victim or martyr. There are constructive solutions one can learn from. And it doesn't have to be boring or in the box at all.
