

This ebook is the first entry in the series Women-in-Prison. Women-in-Prison Short Stories is a series of short stories (one or more per ebook) about real women inmates and their real crimes, experiences in prison, and impact on the author while she was an inmate in the same women's prison. This particular short story set features crimes against children. When you make friends in prison, you don't want to know the crime. It just changes your perspective entirely; and you don't want to make enemies in prison. Each ebook in the series introduces one or more inmates through the interaction between the inmate(s) and the author. Specifics about the prison environment, events, and other personal revelations are described. Talk about reality TV, these short stories take you inside the prison world for real and for true. Eventually, the series of short stories will be bundled as a collection for your reading pleasure.
